Embarking on a transcendental musical odyssey, the debut solo album 'Sacred Journey' is a testament to the profound depths of personal metamorphosis of a soul unmasked. In the midst of prevalent biases in the music industry, a mother of two boldly defies expectations, forging her unique musical path despite prevailing opinions. Her unwavering commitment is not only a powerful assertion of individuality but also a crucial endeavor to set an inspiring example for her two daughters. This musical offering invites all on a shared pilgrimage of self-discovery, proving that vulnerability, though challenging in its need for honesty and authenticity, is a source of resilience and courage.

As a South African Singer-Songwriter, my creative journey led me to the vibrant embrace of Berlin since August 2020. Music has been my steadfast companion since my teenage years, where I found solace in strumming my guitar and pouring my emotions into heartfelt lyrics. I've played a central role in bands like Ragged Moon, Shiva (alongside my brother Dwain du Plessis and SAMA award winner Peter Auret), Harem, and Closer2Free. One significant highlight was collaborating on BlackBeak's debut “Heaven and Her Demons” with cherished friends Ralf Globisch, Marco Errath, and Conley van der Westhuizen. This independent project caught the attention of Dawn Patrol Music and was welcomed into their Artist Roster in 2020, courtesy of the SheistheMusic Organisation.

Recently, I've had the joy of performing as a guest vocalist with the reggae band Bonfi and immersing myself in the lively sounds of the brand new Funk Soul cover band '7 Ears Dive'. However, the true exhilaration lies in the upcoming release of my solo album, “Sacred Journey.” I invested my heart and soul into this project during the profound awakening that was the pandemic, making it a labor of love. I extend immense gratitude to Usama Siddiq for arranging and producing the album, and to Garrick du Toit at Playsound SA for his magical touch in the mixing and mastering process.
